INDIVIOR GRANTS $1.2M TO THE MOYER FOUNDATION

Multi-year commitment supports expansion of life-changing programs to reduce intergenerational cycle of addiction

Camp Mariposa[®] for children of addicted family members will open in West Virginia in 2017

PHILADELPHIA, PA, September 20, 2016 — The Moyer Foundation, a national nonprofit supporting programs that help children and families affected by grief and addiction, announced a three year, $1.2 million grant from Indivior Inc. to support its Camp Mariposa[®] initiative.

“Addiction is a devastating disease impacting millions of people and their families, especially children. Navigating the difficult challenges of a family member’s substance use disorder is a critical and growing need in the U.S.,” said Mary FitzGerald, chief executive officer of The Moyer Foundation. “We are appreciative to Indivior for their significant commitment to help support and expand our addiction prevention services and life-changing Camp Mariposa initiative, including a new camp in West Virginia next year.”

The Moyer Foundation’s Camp Mariposa initiative is a national addiction prevention and mentoring program for youth impacted by substance use disorder in their families provided to those in need at no cost. Children ages 9-12 attend weekend camps multiple times a year. In addition, educational and support activities are offered to campers, teens, and their families throughout the year. Camp Mariposa gives youth the knowledge, coping skills and confidence to prevent them from developing an addiction of their own. Led by mental health professionals and trained mentors, Camp Mariposa provides a safe, fun and supportive environment critical to helping break the cycle of intergenerational addiction.

“We are very pleased to be partnering with The Moyer Foundation. There is an incredibly strong alignment between our two organizations’ commitments to make a measurable difference in the lives of everyone impacted by addiction,” said Shaun Thaxter, CEO, Indivior. “The Moyer Foundation’s Camp Mariposa initiative offers help and hope to families and communities, both of which are critical to break the intergenerational cycle of addiction and help solve the addiction crisis in our nation.”

Currently, Camp Mariposa camps are in 11 locations in the U.S., hosting approximately 1,200 campers in 2016.

Indivior's grant funding will allow The Moyer Foundation to:

- Strengthen, grow and expand its current addiction prevention resources and services by supporting existing and new Camp Mariposa sites with the most recent location added in partnership with Community Connections to serve the rural area of Princeton, West Virginia, to be launched in early 2017;
- Improve infrastructure to provide the highest quality mentoring and addiction prevention programming as well as ensure best practices across the Camp Mariposa partner network; and,
- Form strategic industry partnerships to accelerate awareness and further reduce the stigma associated with addiction.

In addition, Indivior has extended its support for Camp Mariposa through employee volunteerism programs. This year, Indivior employees collected and donated more than 3,000 hygiene supplies for campers at Camp Mariposa's 11 locations nationwide.

As the opioid epidemic strengthens its grip in the U.S., particularly in the Appalachian Region, there is an increased need for prevention programs like Camp Mariposa in states such as West Virginia. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), in 2014 the state of West Virginia had the highest drug overdose rate in the U.S.¹ at more than double the national average. In 2015, West Virginia had the highest reported rate of overdose deaths for youth ages 12-25.² Camp Mariposa educates youth about the disease of addiction and strives to intervene before a problem develops, which can prove vital to delay the age of first use and in turn, reduce the risk for future addiction issues.

September is National Recovery Month

Indivior and The Moyer Foundation are committed to increasing awareness and reducing stigma around substance use disorders and support Recovery Month, sponsored each year in September by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Administration (SAMSHA). According to SAMHSA, 8.3 million children in the U.S. live in a home with a parent in need of treatment for alcohol and/or drug dependency. In addition, children living with an addicted family member are four times more likely³ than their peers to become alcohol dependent themselves.
